BIGGEST SEASON

In the History of Estill Springs. Everybody Happy.

ESTILL SPRINGS, July 23, 1900.

Editors News:

This will be the biggest season in the history of the springs. There are one hundred people here now, and nearly all of the rooms are engaged for the month of August. I would advise those who wish to spend any time here in the next five weeks to write at once and engage their quarters.

The people here this Summer are perfectly charming, and the social features alone are worth the price of admission. Some of the most prominent folks in Central Kentucky are here, with a number from Ohio. They come to have a good time, and enjoy themselves in a simple, sensible way, and that is what they are doing.

And, oh, the music, it is splendid. Everybody has complimented it, and I don't wonder. Six young men, from the Cincinnati College of Music comprise the band, and I tell you they are worth listening to. There is nothing so soothing, delicious and restful as good music and nothing so nerve-rasping, ear-splitting and tormenting as the contrary kind. I thought last year the music was excellent, but Will Thomas' ambition seems to be to set a high standard one season and then surpass it the next season. But hark, they are playing now, and I want to sit right still, in the twilight, and look out upon the beautiful scenery fading into darkness and dream dreams and see visions.

I am soothed and rested by this place as I am by no other spot in the world. I do not think it would do for me to stay at Estill too long, however, as I would, like the lotus-eaters, forget home friends and country.

It is wonderful to see people who diet at home, and either are, or think they are, suffering from dyspepsia in violent form, come here, and after they have drunk a few gallons of water, pitch in and eat anything—bread, vegetables, desserts, etc., and eat suppers which would astonish and horrify their medical attendants at home, but which do not do them the least bit of harm.

I haven't told the young folks anything in this letter about how Cupid is getting along up here. Well, love-making is progressing merrily, and if these "Summer girls" and "Summer boys," stand to their bargains, I expect that the prices of white goods, flowers, and "biled shirts" will rise quite violently this Fall. A pretty girl in a shirt waist is about the prettiest thing on earth, anyway, and no wonder the men capitulate in Summer.

That is, I always think so, until I see these same adorable creatures in the full perfection of evening dress. The radiant vision, which delighted one's eyes on Saturday evening, when the young people had a charming, little impromptu german with us. From the brilliant opening march until midnight, all too soon, closed the fun. The long row of spectators enjoyed it scarce less than the merry dancers themselves. Those participating were: Mesdames Smith, Mosley, Payne, Misses Laura Pepper, Anna Johnson, Louise Van Winkle, Fanny and Maria Thornton, Sue Buckner, Bessie Sphar, Ethel Thomas, Messrs. L. H. and J. W. Bush, T. M. Hampton, James Phillips, Wm. Sphar, Julian Van Winkle, Preset Payne, Thompson, Leonard Aranfoes.

I always take great pains to bring a lot of well-selected books to the springs, but I never manage to read any of them. Turn around a few times after breakfast, and it is dinner time, after dinner talk a few minutes and go and get some sulphur water and it is supper time. Then after supper I adjourn to the ball-room for what seems to me to be about a quarter of an hour, look at my watch, see, it is ten o'clock, and walk off to bed, thinking, "How in the world is it that I can't get any reading done?"

The truth is, you meet so many charming people here, you prefer to talk to them, and to commune with the great minds of the past at some period when you can't be with these lovely flesh and blood folks. I have been in the world a long time, and it is my deliberate conviction that of all the nice things on the earth, agreeable people are the nicest.

They are still feeding me on all the delicacies the land can afford, until I fear each meal that I will be fondered. I thought that perhaps after a while the provisions would run short, but they seem to be on the increase. How is the world the Thomases keep such a table here in the mountains is a perpetual mystery to me, unless they are in this business for their health.

As the season advances, the gaieties multiply and the coming fortnight promises to be one of universal interest to the young people, with bowling parties, encher parties and dancing. The time will be fully occupied on Monday evening, July 30th. There will be a large encher party on Tuesday, the 31st, a beautiful german. A great gathering of Kentucky beauty and chivalry. On Wednesday evening theatricals in the ball room, &c., &c.

FALSE FACE CAST OFF.

China's Ruler Issues Orders to Prepare for a General War on the Allied Powers.

Viceroy and Governors to Take The Consequence if Any Territory is Lost, Says the Decree.

A Chinaman Employed in the British Legation, who Made His Escape, Says Ministers Were Murdered.

Other Reports Go to Show That All Have Perished—China Making Extensive Preparations for War—General Uprising Certain.

London, July 26.—The Daily Telegraph publishes this dispatch from its special correspondent:

Canton, July 24, via Hong-Kong, July 25.—Viceroy Taku to-day published the following mandate:

"An important imperial decree was issued the 23d day of the sixth moon, saying:

"We have lost Tien-Tsin. Great precautions have been taken in Peking. No peace can be obtained without going through a war.

"In the time of Chungow the agreement is made that no murder can be committed on ministers from abroad. It is a month since the minister from Germany was assassinated by Boxers. Strict orders have been given to arrest the murderer.

"We are trying our utmost to preserve the lives of the other ministers. They are still in safety.

"For fear that the viceroys and governors may misunderstand the intention of this decree and rely on the safety of these ministers as grounds for making peace, let them, taking no heed whatever, prepare for attack and defense. Neglect in fortifying the districts under their jurisdiction will bring endless calamity.

"The viceroys and governors are to pay all their attention to and urge on the preparations for coast attack and defense. They are to take the consequences in case of any territory being entirely lost through their delay or mismanagement."

The Europeans here understand thoroughly the last part of this edict, which states that the viceroys and governors are commanded by the dowager empress to prepare for a Chinese war against the allied powers.

Viceroy Taku is bitterly anti-foreign, and is increasing his armaments, military and marine. His plans will be unmasked soon after the allied powers ascertain definitely the facts concerning the massacre in Peking, which are being sedulously concealed.

Chinese gunboats infest the channel at the back of Shanghai. Eighteen Chinese gunboats lie below the imperial government wharf awaiting orders.

London, July 26.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express says: "A general rising throughout China is now regarded as so absolutely certain that all the missionaries throughout the empire have been ordered to take refuge without delay, either at Shanghai or Hong-Kong. Refugees are beginning to arrive from all points in the most pitiable condition.

"As the result of a constant correspondence with the governor of Shan Tung, Li Hung Chang announced that the imperial government was prepared at any moment to give a safe convoy to the members of the foreign legations from Peking to Tien-Tsin, provided a guarantee was given that no advance would be made upon the capital and that all matters in dispute between China and the powers would be made the subject of friendly negotiations.

"In the same communication to the consuls Earl Li stated that the imperial government had submitted to the powers a statement of its position, declaring that it had suffered greatly by recent events, but desired not only to suppress rebellion, but also to remove the causes of the hostility of foreign powers. Therefore he hoped that the offer to escort the foreigners to Tien-Tsin would be regarded as an earnest of the desire of the Chinese government for the renewal of friendly relations.

"The consuls replied that no basis for friendly negotiations was possible until proof was at hand that the ministers were still living. Consul Warren declined to discuss the matter at all, but in his reply to the French consul Li Hung Chang undertook to obtain a satisfactory message from the French minister, M. Pichon, within five days."

Washington, July 26.—The following cablegram has been received at the navy department:

"Che-Foo, July 24.—Navigation Bureau, Washington: Written message, signed Conger, dated July 4, received Tien-Tsin 21st, says:

"Been besieged two weeks British legation. Grave danger general massacre by Chinese soldiers, who are shelling legation daily. Relief soon, if at all. City without government except by Chinese army. Determined massacre all foreigners Peking. Entry relief forces into city probably be hotly contested."

THOMAS.

The message comes from Capt. Charles M. Thomas, commander of the Brooklyn.

Washington, July 26.—The state department has received a cable dispatch from Consul General Goodnow, but it is stated that it contains nothing to clear the situation at Peking. Mr. Goodnow says that Li Hung Chang will remain in Shanghai for the present, and will conduct his negotiations from that city. There is an intimation that Earl Li is detained at the request of the foreign officials, although this was not so stated by Acting Secretary Hill.

No information has been received from the Chinese legation or Chinese government in response to President McKinley's reply to the emperor.

No answer has yet been received from the second dispatch sent to Minister Conger through Minister Wu, but it is stated that when a reply is received it will probably set at rest all doubts as to its authenticity.

London, July 26.—Mr. Conger's letter, the substance of which has been transmitted to the United States secretary of the navy through Capt. Thomas, of the United States cruiser Brooklyn, has increased the belief in London that there is no hope for the foreign legations in Peking, and that the elaborate fabric of the dispatches which the Chinese are building to persuade the civilized world that the ministers are safe is only intended to enable them to gain time to complete preparations for warfare.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail asserts that a Chinaman who was employed at the British legation as a writer and interpreter has escaped from Peking to Nin Chwang, and that he declares that at the time he left Peking most of the members of the legations were dead and the condition of the others was hopeless. He says that Sir Robert Hart, director of Chinese imperial maritime customs, died on July 2.

The correspondent goes on to say: "No other dates are given in the message from Nin Chwang. The leading Chinese newspaper here published a dispatch declaring that it was all over with the members of the legations. The president of a minor board at Peking wrote to a relative in Shanghai, under date of July 9, saying: 'The foreign legations are still uncaptured, but, owing to the daily fighting, it is reported that only about 300 persons are left alive in the legations, and if there is any delay in the arrival of the relief force, I fear that none will be left to receive it.'

"This letter is regarded in Shanghai as authentic. Strange enough, it says nothing of any assistance to the legations by Prince Ching or Gen. Lung Lu."

While these brief sidelights as to the fate of the Europeans leave little ground for hope, Shanghai sends a batch of reports indicative of preparations for hostilities on the part of the Chinese. It is alleged that the Yang Tse viceroys have sent deputies to Shanghai to inquire as to the prospect of raising a foreign loan, ostensibly to pursue military operations against the Boxers, whose movement is extending rapidly southward with constantly growing strength, and had reached a point where the provinces of Shan Tung, Ho Nan and Shan Si meet, leaving behind it a trail of burned missions and murdered Christians.

PROBABLY ALL KILLED.

Nothing Heard of the Russian Force Protecting the Railway Between Charkov and Tielin.

St. Petersburg, July 26.—In the opinion of the Russian general staff, the protective force on the railway between Charkov and Tielin must be in a critical position, since no definite news of the situation there has been received. All that is known is that the wives and children of the workmen have fled to Charkov.

The detachment, which numbers 200, was at the end of June threatened by 15,000 Chinese with artillery. As late as July 17 it had not been heard of either at Charkov or Sungari, and it is feared that the force has been annihilated.

Col. Artamonoff, of the Russian general staff, a well-known traveler, has been ordered to proceed to Kwang Tung and then to place himself at the disposition of the governor of Port Arthur.

Russia Will Bombard Coast Towns.

London, July 26.—The Daily Express has the following from St. Petersburg: "Adm. Skrydloff, commanding the Russian squadron in Chinese waters, has received precise instructions to bombard the Chinese coast towns immediately on receipt of confirmation of the report of the massacre at Peking."

Washington, July 26.—The state department has received a cablegram from Consul McWade at Canton, saying that Viceroy Tak gives assurances that all the foreign envoys at Peking were alive and well on July 22.

THE NEELY SHORTAGE

Bristow's Report Says it Will Aggregate at Least $131,713.

Light Thrown Upon Many Other of Neely's Transactions Heretofore Not Made Public—Others Implicated in the Matter.

Washington, July 26.—The postmaster general has made public the report of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, who investigated the Cuban postal frauds. Mr. Bristow finds that Neely's embezzlements aggregated at least $131,713, and says he was justified in recommending the removal of Director General Rathbone. Whether or not the latter was guilty with Neely in the embezzlements, he says there can be no doubt that in the matter of unauthorized per diem allowances, personal expenses and warrants cashed and unaccounted for, he unlawfully appropriated to his own use money of the Cuban revenues. For this, Mr. Bristow says, he believes Mr. Rathbone should be required to answer.

Mr. Bristow explains that the bureau of finance inaugurated by Director General Rathbone, of which Neely was appointed chief, was started July 7, 1899. This bureau was charged with the custody of all stamps and postal supplies. The division of postal accounts, changed July 1, 1899, to a division of the auditor's office, was in charge of Dr. W. H. Reeves, who was appointed by the secretary of war. The report says that no accounts of the unbonded postmaster were required, remittances being entered as cash sales, and the only information the auditor's office had of these transactions came from Neely himself. There was no check whatever on his transactions. From the accounts examined the report says the minimum of Neely's embezzlements may be summarized as follows: Shortage as shown by his own records, $30,600; excess of credit by destruction of surcharged stamps definitely ascertained, $101,113; total, $131,713. This will be increased by the discovery of additional sales of surcharged stamps, but will not exceed $150,000 in the aggregate.

The report says that Rathbone appointed Neely, who had custody of the stamps; Reeves, the only man who could have a check on Neely's transactions, and Dr. Warfield, chief of the bureau of registration, a commission to destroy the surcharged stamps, of which Neely had received $522,000, and that Neely and Reeves entered into a conspiracy to report a larger quantity of stamps destroyed than were actually destroyed. But, the report says, Neely's fraudulent transactions were not confined to these embezzlements, and while the amounts were small compared with the latter, "they show the same official depravity and utter disregard of the interests of the public service."

The connection between Neely and the Neely Printing Co., of Muncie, Ind., of which he was proprietor before he went to Cuba, is then explained. The alleged sale of the plant of this company to Cowan, Neely's business associate, the report says, was not a bona fide transaction, as it is not believed Cowan ever paid Neely any money for his pretended interest. Neely ordered from this company supplies for the department of posts in Cuba.

The books of the printing company show it received for printing $7,927, while the bills paid and the money order records at Muncie show $2,131 more than the amount indicated by the books was paid. Some of the bills were paid twice. Rathbone, when asked why he approved these accounts, said he did not know until after Neely's arrest that any printing was done at Muncie. If this statement is true, says the report, he convicts himself of the most utter and indefensible negligence of official duties.

The department of posts purchased from the Keyless Lock Co., of Indianapolis, $14,879 worth of furniture. This company paid Neely $3,292 in two checks—one for $2,972 and the other for $320. For what purpose this money was paid him does not appear. The only reasonable conclusion is that it was paid as a "commission," "subsidy" or bribe for the privilege of supplying the furniture.

When Neely was assigned to duty in Havana January 7, 1899, his salary was $1,600. The report says he was at this time financially embarrassed. February 6, 1899, he sent a deposit of $329 to the Muncie bank and in February and March his additional deposits aggregated $1,330. Thus Neely, with a salary of $130 a month, was able within three months to deposit $1,859, is conclusive proof that his embezzlement began in February, 1899. In May he deposited $837, June $775, July $963, August $13,125, October $20,250, and a number of deposits of lesser amounts were made afterward."

Rain in Bombay.

London, July 26.—The governor of Bombay Presidency, Lord North-Cote of Exeter, reports a general rainfall, "sufficient for agricultural purposes" in Surat and Southern Gujarat. He says that two and half inches of rain have fallen.

Watching the Ports.

Port Townsend, Wash., July 26.—Collector of Customs Heustis received instructions from Secretary Gage to use every precaution to prevent the shipment of arms and ammunition to Asiatic ports from Puget sound.

ACCUSED OF MURDER.

Giles Baker, Farmer, Indicted for the Killing of an Adopted Son of Andrew Jackson.

Nashville, Tenn., July 26.—Giles Baker, a farmer of this section, was indicted and arrested for the assassination of W. A. Donelson, an adopted son of the Andrew Jackson, and a leading citizen of this section, near the Hermitage late Sunday. According to the evidence produced Baker took up a position in a strip of woods on the road to Donelson's home, and there laid in wait for his unsuspecting victim. When Donelson came along riding horseback the assassin opened fire with a Winchester rifle, sending three bullets through his body. Witnesses who examined the body swore that two other shots were fired into the prostrate form after Donelson had fallen from his horse, making five in all.

The men had a difficulty some months ago, when the friends of Donelson advised him to go armed, Baker having threatened his life.

Donelson was born in Russia while his father was United States minister there 50 years ago. The dead man's father was Col. Andrew Jackson Donelson, private secretary to Old Hickory when the latter was president. Andrew Jackson later adopted Donelson as his son.

MOB IN NEW ORLEANS.

One Negro Dead, Two Fatally Shot and Twelve Men Seriously Wounded as a Result.

New Orleans, July 26.—One Negro dead, two fatally shot and 12 men seriously wounded is the known result of a mob's desperate work in this city Wednesday night. Three of the wounded are white men who were hit by stray bullets. Public feeling has reached its highest tension, and armed mobs are searching various parts of the city in an effort to apprehend Robert Charles, the Negro who shot and killed Police Captain Day and Patrolman Lamb at an early hour Tuesday morning.

Many Negroes who were on the streets or riding in cars were fired upon, with more or less serious results.

The body of the dead Negro, who has not been identified, is in the morgue, and half a dozen badly battered colored men and women are in the Charity hospital. Among those badly wounded is a Pullman car porter who had just arrived on his run from Chicago. He was pulled from a street car and shot twice. His recovery is doubtful. It is generally believed the desperado, Charles, is in hiding in the home of some friendly Negro. The greatest vigilance is being exercised to apprehend him, and he will unquestionably be lynched if caught.

BOERS GOING NORTHEAST.

Evacuated Their Positions Near Bronkhorst Spruit—Krugger Going to Leydenberg.

Bronkhorst Spruit, July 26.—The Boers, having got wind of the British advance, have evacuated all their positions and are reported to be moving northeast, towards Leydenberg, whither President Kruger is going. A portion of the Boers remain north of Bushveldt, whence they attempt to interrupt communications on this line.

The bridges here and smaller bridges to the west have been destroyed.

The British force comprises two brigades under Gen. French and a brigade and a half under Gen. Hamilton. It is not likely that the advance upon Middleburg will be contested. The Boers remaining upon their farms state that most of the burghers are anxious to bring matters to a finish, but that the foreigners are persistent.

London, July 26.—A dispatch from Lord Roberts Wednesday indicates that the British have suffered another disaster by losing 200 men of the Welsh Fusiliers to the Boers. If Roberts refers to the Honingepuit disaster, then twice as many men were captured there than at first reported.

FIGHTING IN COLOMBIA.

Terrific Engagement Continues Between Government Troops and Insurgents Around Panama.

Colon, Colombia, July 26.—A terrific engagement still continues between the government troops and the insurgents around Panama, but the former are still holding their ground. Many have been killed and wounded, and four hours' armistice was agreed upon to attend the wounded and bury the dead.

The steamer Bernard Hall arrived at Colon from Savanilla at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with reinforcements for the government, numbering 1,000. They were brought by Gen. Campos Serrano, governor of the department.

The cable between Colon and Jamaica has been repaired.

Metcalfe Notified.

New York, July 26.—The official notification of Henry B. Metcalfe, of Pawtucket, R. I., of his nomination for vice president on the prohibition ticket, took place in Carnegie hall. John G. Wooley, of Chicago, the candidate for president, who was notified officially in Chicago, was present.

Fuller Fox Renominated.

Jackson, Miss., July 26.—Specials from the Fourth district state that Fuller Fox is renominated for congress, defeating Southworth by a large majority.

CHEMICALS EXPLODED.

Three Women Killed, One Fatally Injured and Others Hurt—The Factory Fired.

Chicago, July 26.—Shortly before noon Wednesday an explosion occurred in the chemical department of the Windsor Celluloid Collar Co. on the fourth floor of 125 Dearborn street, setting fire to the building resulting in the death of three women, the fatal injury of another, and minor injuries to five other persons. The property loss is estimated at $5,000, partially insured.

Dead are: Mrs. Ellen McLaughlin, two unknown girls. Injured: Grace Peterson, fatally; Viola Ritter, unknown man cut by falling glass, two unknown women cut by falling glass. There were 23 girls working in the Windsor Collar Co. when, without a moment's warning, a terrific explosion occurred, blowing the glass of the front window clear across Dearborn street. A sheet of flame followed instantly and the terror-stricken girls with their clothing licked by the flames, crawled through the windows to the coping running along the front of the building. The coping extended eighty feet to the Lichstein Tailoring Co.'s building, the windows of which were thronged with men, calling encouragement to the terrified girls. As fast as they reached the Lichstein windows the girls were drawn into safety. Just as Mrs. McLaughlin was about to be drawn through the window the girl behind her in haste pushed Mrs. McLaughlin, who lost her balance and fell to the pavement, dying instantly. The two unknown dead girls jumped from rear windows. One was picked up dead and the other died at the hospital.

CONCENTRATING TROOPS.

Soldiers From All Parts of the Union Gathering at San Francisco for Duty in the Orient.

San Francisco, July 26.—San Francisco is now a point of concentration for the troops gathered together from all over the United States for duty in the Orient. At military headquarters everybody is working under pressure.

Battery B, of the 3d heavy artillery, has arrived and encamped with Batteries A, I, and O, bringing the battalion to its full strength. The four batteries will sail with the 4th cavalry on the Hancock July 28, for China.

Wednesday morning Troop H, of the 9th cavalry (colored), came in. This completes the concentration of the regiment here.

The three companies, A, C and D, 18th infantry, which are just back from Manila, will remain at the Presidio and not go to Montana, as was expected.

Recruits are coming in at about the rate of 75 a day. They are from all parts of the union. There is so far no difficulty in obtaining all the volunteers necessary.

Sixteen bodies of soldiers from the Philippines were buried Tuesday in the national cemetery.

INDIAN DEPREDACTIONS.

They Have Deliberately Set Fire to Valuable Timber and Are Slaughtering Game.

Kalispell, Mont., July 26.—One of the worst forest fires ever known in Northwestern Montana is now raging in the Swan Lake country, on the western part of the Lewis and Clarke forest reserve. Gus Mosler, superintendent of the reserve, reports that the Indians deliberately set fire to the timber and are slaughtering the game. He will proceed against the perpetrators.

Within the space of 30 miles up and down the river, he says, there are over 30 fires now burning fiercely, including the finest white pine and cedar on the reserve, and that it is almost impossible to estimate the damage. As fast as one fire is extinguished another is started, and his rangers are almost worn out.

May Call Off the Boycott.

St. Louis, July 26.—The Lithographic Artists' and Engravers' association has called off the boycott against the St. Louis Transit Co.; declared that in the future no fines should be levied against its members for patronizing the cars; decided that no more assessments should be levied in the interests of the street car strikers. It is also claimed that similar action will be taken by at least one, and possibly more, labor organizations which will meet this week. The action is regarded as significant in that possibly it presages a general calling off of the boycotts instituted against the transit company by labor unions.

IT'S ALL IN A NAME.

One Reason Why the Conservative Negro Whitewasher Lost His Occupation.

"What's in a name?" asked Shakespeare. Everything, may be answered, and no one has made the answer more plain to the ordinary mortal than Booker T. Washington, the noted colored orator, says the Omaha Times-Herald. While lecturing in Omaha last winter he paused in the midst of his remarks and asked:

"How many negro boys in Omaha are learning a mechanical trade?"

And from the vast audience came the reply:

"Not one."

Then Mr. Washington proceeded to tell the negro boys what they should do. The old colored man with his brush and pail of whitewash once made a good living. But he was a whitewasher. The first thing he knew a white man came along with an assortment of brushes and several colors of wash under fancy names. The white man called himself an "interior decorator," and the old colored man's job was gone for ever.

"You negro boys," continued Mr. Washington, "must become interior decorators, for the whitewashing job is done."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Cures Them—Two Letters from Women. DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to tell you of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I was sick in bed about five weeks. The right side of my abdomen pained me and was so swollen and sore that I could not walk. The doctor told my husband I would have to undergo an operation. This I refused to do until I had given your medicine a trial. Before I had taken one bottle the swelling began to disappear. I continued to use your medicine until the swelling was entirely gone. When the doctor came he was very much surprised to see me so much better."

—MRS. MARY SMITH, Arlington, Iowa.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was sick for two years with falling of the womb, and inflammation of the ovaries and bladder. I was bloated very badly. My left limb would swell so I could not step on my foot. I had such bearing down pains I could not straighten up or walk across the room and such shooting pains would go through me that I thought I could not stand it. My mother got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me to try it. I took six bottles and now, thanks to your wonderful medicine, I am a well woman."

THE GOEBEL MURDER.

Lieut. J. Ricketts Gives Damaging Evidence in the Powers Trial.

Witness Said Youtsey Declared $1,200 Was Ready to Be Paid for the Assassination From the Executive Building.

Georgetown, Ky., July 24.—The third and last week of the examination of witnesses for the commonwealth in the Caleb Powers case began Monday morning.

John Ricketts, lieutenant in John Powers' Barbourville company of state militia, was the first witness called. He said that Wharton and Green Golden were officers in the company. The witness went to Frankfort on the special train and returned home the second day after the shooting.

"The day before Goebel was shot," said Ricketts, "I was talking to Henry Youtsey, and we were discussing hunting. He said that Goebel had to be put out of the way, and that he had $100 to do it with, and that he knew 10 or 12 others who would give as much. He said that it could be done from the executive building, and the person who did it could pass out of the basement. He said that his job depended on this contest.

"On the day of the assassination I was at our headquarters, in the agricultural building, when Youtsey came over about 10:30 and said he wanted all of us to go with him. There were about 25 or 30 in the room, and 12 or 15 went with him to the executive building. Youtsey put us inside the building near the stairs and told us to stay there, that something was going to happen. He started through the hall, and I turned and went out and went to a private residence back of Capitol square, where one of our boys was sick. I had been there a short time when I heard some shots. I knew none of the men whom I left at the foot of the stairs in the executive building were carrying arms, but when I returned to find out what had happened they had guns."

Georgetown, Ky., July 25.—When court convened in the Caleb Powers trial Tuesday morning the commonwealth asked for subpoenas duces tecum for the managers of both telegraph companies at Frankfort, requiring them to bring into court all cipher telegrams which they handled between December 22, 1899, and February 5, 1900; also, for the secretary of state, ordering him to bring the official record of his office, and for the adjutant general, requiring him to produce the muster rolls.

Pat McDonald testified that the morning Goebel was shot he left the Capitol building a short time before the shots were fired, and on the pavement near the fountain saw Culton in close consultation with another man. On the Saturday before the shooting he was in the lower hall of the Capitol building, when a man ran down stairs and said to a man behind him, "Come on, boys; get your guns; it's time to begin the killing." A long time was taken up in the examination of Ed Porter Thompson, sr., who located the spot where Goebel fell, because, from where he was standing, inside the Capitol building hallway, he could not see the body for one of the large pillars. He located the various windows in the executive building.

Ed Porter Thompson, jr., testified that he was standing on Lewis street, east of Capitol square, but could not see the place where Senator Goebel fell, on account of a mound at the foot of a tree between him and the spot.

At this point Judge Cantrill again remembered the sheriff, and fined him $2.50 for not keeping the aisle clear around the jury.

Miss Ella Smith, of Barbourville, told of a conversation between John Powers and herself on January 16. They were regretting the Colson-Scott tragedy, which happened in Frankfort on that day, and Powers said there would be some more bloodshed at Frankfort if Goebel was seated. Witness was surprised at this statement and said, "Oh, Mr. Powers, you would not be willing to kill him, would you?" to which Powers replied that he would.

James Fletcher, of Knox county, testified to having heard John Powers say in December that "Taylor had been elected governor, and if any effort was made to count him out Goebel would never be seated."

Georgetown, Ky., July 26.—When Judge Cantrill's court convened Wednesday morning a dozen or more witnesses who had been summoned on behalf of the commonwealth were excused on motion of the prosecution, and as the same thing has occurred each morning this week the total list of witnesses for the prosecution has been reduced very materially. Some of those excused were put upon their recognizance to appear and testify in the cases of Youtsey and others which are in the distance. This was the fifteenth day of the trial.

The defense asked that Robert Noakes be called, that they might ask him some questions on one point, but stated that they would recall him later for further cross-examination. The prosecution consented to this, and Noakes was asked to fix the time of the several conversations he claimed to have had with Caleb Powers at Frankfort, January 25.

McKenzie Todd, who was private secretary to Gov. Taylor, was the next witness called. Witness had seen Gov. Taylor in conference with Powers, Culton, Finley, S. G. Sharp and others frequently. Saw Youtsey in the governor's private office twice doing some stenographic work. Witness did not know why Youtsey was doing this work, as the governor had a stenographer of his own. Saw Caleb Powers and Youtsey together January 30th. Later, the same day, witness saw Youtsey come into the general reception room of the governor, carrying a gun. Youtsey took a position by a window and later went into the office for the secretary of state where he knelt down by a window pointing the gun out of it. Powers saw Youtsey and asked witness to get him out from the room, and witness asked Youtsey what he was doing there with a gun. Youtsey said there was trouble up there, pointing to the house. Witness told him he had adjourned, and asked Youtsey what he intended to do in case of the trouble. Youtsey said: "I don't intend to start trouble, but if it starts this building must be protected." Witness said the defendant Powers then joined him. Told Youtsey it would never do for anyone to shoot from that building. Youtsey had tall window raised and blind pulled down. Witness left the room, leaving Youtsey and Powers in the room together. On Monday following Powers came to witness and told him Youtsey was outside and wanted admission to the office of the secretary of state. Powers said Youtsey acted so peculiarly that he did not want him around, and asked witness to go out and get him away.

Saturday prior to the assassination witness saw three guns in the office of the secretary of state. Youtsey called attention of witness to them by removing a plank under which they were concealed. Youtsey said, "Powers claims to be a brave man, but he hid his gun."

Witness was in the governor's reception room, which is also the office of the assistant secretary of state and of corporation clerk's, when the shooting occurred. Those in the room did not know who it was that had been shot, but could see the body lying on the pavement. Gov. Taylor opened his door and asked what was the matter. About that time a Mr. Hartgrove, of Somerset, came in and said Goebel had been shot. Gov. Taylor exclaimed, "My God, that is awful." Capt. John Davis said everybody there would be snubbed, and they had better arm themselves.

Witness told of accompanying Davis to the colliers residence across the street, where they procured guns. He heard no suggestion by any one as to who had fired the shot. They were fired from a position west of where witness stood at that time. The secretary of state's office is in that direction. Knew no one was out who had keys to that office.

While Powers was in jail at Frankfort, Judge Mathews, formerly secretary of state, called on witness and asked him to sign a statement. Mathews was making an investigation in the interest of Powers. Witness refused to talk with Mathews or to consider the statement. At this point court suspended till Wednesday afternoon on account of the illness of Juror Kemper.

The attorneys for the prosecution say they will explode a bomb before the end of the week, when they expect to complete the commonwealth's testimony. It is a growing belief that Youtsey is to be put on the stand as the closing witness.

Georgetown and Scott county are excited over a report that several hundred of Powers' mountain friends will arrive here Monday or Tuesday and they fear that trouble may occur in that event.

The prosecution has many of its important witnesses, who have not yet been heard, P. Wharton Golden, Detectives Armstrong and Harding, Walter Bronston and a number of others, but it is believed that side will raise their testimony in chief Saturday.

A representative of the prosecution said that that side was well pleased with the evidence it had brought out. The defense will admit Powers' connection with the organization of the 1,200 mountaineers, who came to Frankfort January 25, and who, after stacking their rifles in the state buildings, held a mass meeting in front of the Capitol, but will introduce proof to show that the body of men though armed came in good faith to petition the legislature and with no intention of intimidation.

New York, July 25.—The transport Rawlins, which left Santiago Saturday with 13 officers and 300 of the 5th infantry, was expected to reach quarantine Tuesday. The troops will be sent to Fort Sheridan, Illinois. The Sedgwick, with 22 officers and 850 men of the 2d infantry, was due Tuesday. She left Cuba July 19. These troops are to be sent on to Fort Thomas at Newport, Ky., which is across the Ohio river from Cincinnati. They will disembark from the transport at Weehawken. The Sedgwick will then go to San Juan, Porto Rico, and Mayaguez to bring back two battalions of the 11th infantry, consisting of 22 officers and 850 men. She will also take on board a part of the 5th cavalry.

FRUSTRATED BY POLICE.

A Daring Attempt to Hold Up a Train Almost in the Heart of the City of Chicago.

Chicago, July 25.—According to the police, a daring attempt to hold up the big Four passenger train due here at 6 p. m. was foiled by the timely warning given the authorities. Six men and three boys, all armed with revolvers, waited several hours during the afternoon at the Drexel Park station. They were observed and the police notified. A wagon load of bluecoats hurried to the scene and were met by a brisk fire, which they returned. After a few minutes of fighting the police rushed at their opponents. They captured three boys, each armed with two pistols. The six men, three of them colored, had fled.

The boys told the police the men had given them the revolvers and told them to shoot when their seniors did. The police declare that the men evidently intended to stop the train and rob it, hoping to escape easier in the streets of a big city than would be possible in sparsely settled districts, where such attempts are usually made.

FIVE PERSONS DROWNED.

Mother, Daughter and Three Others Perish in Wiley's Lake, Near Fillmore, Cal.

Ventura, Cal., July 25.—News comes from the eastern part of this county of the drowning of five persons in Wiley's lake. The dead are:

Mrs. Byron H. Wiley, aged 40 years; A. Wiley, daughter of Mrs. Wiley, aged 13 years; Miss Foshun, aged 19 years; — Broderick, a young man; unknown boy, aged about 13 years.

It was an exceedingly hot day and Mrs. Wiley's little party of five went in bathing. They went out to a raft, which suddenly began to wobble, and some of the bathers fell into the water. The others made a desperate attempt to rescue their companions, and in so doing perished.

Master Wiley, a boy about 16 years old, stood on the bank and witnessed the awful event, too frightened to run for aid. He has not yet recovered from the shock. The lake is situated near the Wiley residence, some six miles from Fillmore. It does not cover an acre of ground, and the deepest portion is but 20 feet deep.

CAVALRY FOR THE EAST.

Four Troops, All That Remained at Fort Meyer, Have Left, Bound for Nagasaki.

Washington, July 25.—Four troops of cavalry, all that remained at Fort Meyer, have left for the far east, with instructions to stop at Nagasaki for orders. They are troops S, B and G, of the 3d cavalry, which left for San Francisco Tuesday, and Troops H and I, of the 3d, which left here Monday evening. The four troops muster 400 men, and are commanded by Maj. Kingsbury. The detachment that left Monday night is proceeding via Atlanta, and will meet at Chattanooga the troops that went Tuesday. They are expected to arrive at San Francisco Sunday or Monday, and will leave on the transport Meade about August 1. The departure of these troops leaves Fort Meyer practically depopulated. The 5th cavalry, under Col. Wm. A. Rafferty, now stationed in the West Indies, has been ordered to the fort and will arrive early next month.

If a war that is "over" and "ended" and "finished" keeps 60,000 men busy, what force would be required for war that was really going on?

TUESDAY'S Courier-Journal had an excellent likeness of Col. Craddock, and introduces him as the Methuselah of the Press Association then in session at Louisville.

THE National Gold Democratic Committee met at Indianapolis on Wednesday. Each member thought it unwise to name a Presidential ticket this fall, and all but Haldeman, of the Courier-Journal, who announced his intention of supporting Bryan, favored McKinley. By a vote of 26 to 1, fusion with the anti-Imperialistic movement was defeated. A committee was appointed to draft a manifesto, setting forth the position of the National Democrats regarding the issues before the people.

The price of granulated sugar has been advanced by the trust to 6 cents per pound, or 5.79 net. People who use this sugar—practically every man, woman and child in the United States—are now receiving an object lesson in the beneficent influence of consolidation and monopoly in reducing prices to consumers, remarks an exchange. No intelligent citizen has to be told that monopoly keeps prices up. He sees the fact demonstrated at every turn. All of the factors which naturally tend to lessen cost of production and make living cheaper are diverted by powerful combined interests to the service of sordid greed. The benefits which should accrue to the masses of the people from new invention, increased consumption, enlargement of the source of raw material and enhanced technical skill in production are absorbed by selfish combinations in the shape of excessive profits, to cover which from public view is now the chief concern of the trust managers who have practically vanquished and destroyed competition.

SHORT NEWS STORIES.

Brief Paragraphs About Important Happenings.

The largest hog in the world is owned by W. T. Williams, of Decatur, Alabama. In weight 1,524 pounds, is ten feet two inches in length, and over four feet high.

A NOISELESS as well as a smokeless powder has been invented. But until a harmless bullet shall be devised the terrors of battle will scarcely be less because the danger is unseen and unheard.

Elijah Clark, the negro who assaulted a thirteen-year-old white girl at Huntsville, Ala., Sunday, was taken from Jail Tuesday by a mob and lynched. The Sheriff defended his prisoner bravely, but was finally overcome by a dense smoke, a combination of tar, oil and feathers being set on fire in the Jail by members of the mob.

Old Chief Geronimo, one of the most bloodthirsty of Indians, went stark mad in his prison at Fort Sil, O. T. It cost the government a million dollars and a hundred lives to capture him.

For Mosquito Bites.
Mosquito bites are often rank poisons, especially upon the delicate flesh of children. It has lately been scientifically proved that the long proboscis of this pest may carry germs from decaying matter into its victim, thus producing malaria or a species of blood poison. Where exposure is impossible to avoid, discomfort is obviated by rubbing the exposed parts with a mixture of one part of oil of sassafras with five parts of proof alcohol. Every three or four hours a slight rubbing must be repeated. The mixture does not stain, nor is it unpleasant.

The bites of mosquitoes and spiders, unless the latter be of an unusually virulent type, can be antidoted by an immediate application of a paste of baking soda and water. Salt will answer in most cases, and listerine is good. Should the bitten part seem angry and swollen diluted carbolic acid will antidote the poison. Scientists have also proved that dangerous disorders like yellow fever have been carried from an ill to a well person, and it is supposed that contagious disorders unaccountably taken frequently originate in the same way.

Woman Suffrage Unconstitutional.
A dispatch to the Chicago Times-Herald from Ottumwa, Ia., says that the cause of woman suffrage has suffered a reverse by a decision handed down by Judge Frank W. Eichelberger in an injunction case recently brought by citizens of Ottumwa against the city council and city officers of that city. Some time ago Andrew Carnegie offered the city $50,000 for a public library on the condition that the city guarantee $5,000 annually for its support. According to the statute, women were permitted to vote on the proposition to accept or reject the offer. By the women's vote it carried. Opponents of the measure began injunction proceedings, and Judge Eichelberger, has announced his decision, as above stated, on the ground that the constitution does not recognize as voters any except male adult citizens. The decision is an important one, and as it is the first case of the kind in the state it may be carried to the supreme court.

The Weidemanns In Repertoire.

On Monday night the Weidemanns Repertoire Company opened a week's engagement at the Grand, presenting the four-act comedy drama "Down In Egypt." The house was packed and over a hundred standing room tickets were sold. The company is first-class in every respect. It is composed of ladies and gentlemen, and what is most to be desired, actors of ability. At the low prices of 10, 20 and 30 cents they present first class plays in a manner that exceeds many high price companies. On Tuesday night a good crowd witnessed the production of "About Town." Wednesday night "In Old Virginia" was the bill, last night was A. O. U. W. night, and the members of that organization turned out in large numbers. The bill was "The Steam Laundry," and it was pronounced the funniest play they have yet produced. After the performance the members of the company were entertained by the A. O. U. W. at their lodge room with an ice cream supper, which was a very enjoyable affair. To-night will be presented "Ten Nights In A Bar Room," and this play and the manner in which this company presents it should insure them a packed house. On Saturday afternoon the children's favorite "Cinderella." Saturday night the engagement will close with the four-act comedy "That Naughty Kid."

WE TWO.

We two make home of any place we go;
We two find joy in any kind of weather;
Or if the earth is clothed in bloom or snow,
If summer days invite, or bleak winds blow.

What matters it, if we two are together?
We two, we two, we make our world, our weather.

We two make banquets of the plainest fare;
In every cup we find the thrill of pleasure.

We hide with wreaths the furrowed brow of care,
And win to smiles the set lips of despair.

For us life always moves with lifting measure;
We two, we two, we make our joy, our pleasure.

We two find youth renewed with every dawn;
Each day holds something of an unknown glory.

We waste no thought on grief or pleasure gone;
Tricked out like hope, time leads us on and on.

And thrums upon his harp new song or story,
We two, we two, we find the paths of glory.

We two make Heaven here on this little earth;
We do not need to wait for realms eternal.

We know the use of tears, know sorrow's worth,
And pain for us is always love's rebirth.

Our paths lead closely by the paths supernatural;
We two, we two, we live in love eternal.

CHAPTER IX.

THE KNICKERBOCKER BANK.

Richard Dunlap was a man who had never missed a train nor been late in keeping an appointment. On the morning following Sprague's dinner party, he walked briskly down Broadway from City Hall. It was New Year's day; the great thoroughfare was deserted. As he turned into Wall street, the hands of the clock in Trinity steeple pointed to three minutes of nine. The financier pulled out his chronometer, found that the clock in the old belfry was right, and quickened his pace.

Wall street slumbered peacefully and silently, like a battlefield after the roar of the cannon has been hushed, after the victors and the vanquished have disappeared, leaving behind them only the ghosts of the slain. The deathlike stillness was oppressive.

At last, as Dunlap reached the Knickerbocker bank, the clock in the belfry struck the hour. The reporter was not there. The banker uttered an ejaculation of annoyance. He looked up and down the street. There was no one in sight. He resolved to give Sturgis five minutes' grace, and began to pace back and forth before the entrance to the bank. Then a thought struck him. There was another entrance on Exchange place—that generally used by the employees and officers. Perhaps the reporter was waiting there. Dunlap walked around to Exchange place and glanced up the street. He saw a man standing in the gutter and bending low over the curb. Dunlap advanced to obtain a front view of him and recognized Sturgis. The reporter had not noticed his approach; he held a magnifying glass in his hand and seemed deeply interested in a minute examination of the smooth-worn curb.

"Good morning, Mr. Sturgis," said the banker, "have you lost something?"

The reporter looked up quietly.

"No, Mr. Dunlap; I have found something—something which may possibly prove to be a hyphen."

"A what?" asked the banker, perplexed.

"A hyphen connecting two parts of a very pretty puzzle."

Dunlap stared curiously at the curb. "I can see nothing there," said he.

Sturgis handed him the magnifying glass.

"Now look again."

He pointed out a particular portion of the curb. Dunlap looked in the direction indicated.

"I see what looks like dried mud, dust particles, and a little dark spot or stain."

"Yes," said Sturgis, "that dark spot is the hyphen. There were probably others like it on the sidewalk yesterday afternoon, but they have been obliterated by the pedestrians. Here, however, are some that have remained."

As he spoke, he led Dunlap to the Exchange place entrance of the bank, and pointed out a number of similar spots on the stone steps.

"Fortunately," he said, as if speaking to himself, "fortunately the detectives entered through the front door last night so that they did not interfere with this portion of the trail."

"But what are these spots?" asked the banker.

"They are blood-stains," replied the reporter. "I have every reason to believe them to be human blood. But that question I can settle positively as soon as we are in the bank, for I have brought a powerful microscope. Let us enter now, if you like; I have seen all there is to be seen outside. By the way, do you know this key?"

He held up a large steel key of complicated structure.

"Why," exclaimed Dunlap, surprised, "that looks like the key to the Exchange place door. Where did you find it?"

"In the gutter, near the sewer opening at the corner."

"But how did it get there?" asked Dunlap, anxiously.

"Perhaps I shall be able to answer that question presently," said Sturgis.

way. Let us enter by the Wall street side, if you please."

A couple of minutes later the outer door of the Knickerbocker bank was unlocked.

"Excuse me if I pass in first," said Sturgis, entering. "I wish to see something here."

He bent low over the tiled entrance, with the magnifying glass in his hand. "It is too bad," he muttered to himself presently. "They have trodden all over the trail here. Ah! what is this?"

"What?" inquired Dunlap.

The reporter vouchsafed no reply to this question, but asked another.

"Is Thursday a general cleaning day at the bank?"

"Yes," answered the banker.

"Every evening, after the closing hour, the floors are swept, of course, and the desks are dusted; but Mondays and Thursdays are reserved for washing the windows, scrubbing the floors, and so forth."

"Then it is lucky that yesterday was Thursday," observed Sturgis.

"Will you please hand me the key to this gate, and that to the inner door?"

Upon entering the bank Sturgis requested his companion to seat himself on a particular chair, which he designated. He then began a critical examination of the premises. Inch by inch he scrutinized the walls, the floor, and even the ceiling; sometimes with the naked eye, sometimes through the magnifying glass. He also constantly brought into play a tape measure; and several times he called upon Dunlap for assistance, when the distances to be measured were longer than his reach.

The Wall street entrance of the Knickerbocker bank led directly into the space to which the public was admitted. This space was partitioned off, as usual, from the bookkeepers' and cashier's departments. At the farther end a door led to a reception room communicating with the president's office. This office itself opened into the cashier's department on one side, and on the other into a small room occupied by the president's secretary and typewriter, and into the vestibule of the Exchange place entrance to the bank.

On the right of the vestibule was a large room in which the bank employees kept their street clothing, and to which they could retire when they were off duty. A door from the clerks' room led into the cashier's department, while another one opened into the private secretary's room.

After he had finished his inspection of the space open to the public, Sturgis, followed by Dunlap, passed into the president's reception room, and thence in turn into the other rooms, and finally into the cashier's and bookkeepers' departments.

Several times he stopped, retraced his footsteps to some particular point and then began his search anew. At times he crawled about on his hands and knees; at others he climbed upon the furniture, the better to examine some spot upon the wall. In the president's office he stopped to pick up a great number of tiny scraps of paper which lay in and around the waste basket. These he carefully placed in an envelope, which he laid upon the president's table.

On one side of the room there stood a magnificent old-fashioned carved mantelpiece. The artistic beauty of the structure did not seem to strike Sturgis, but he appeared to derive a great deal of satisfaction from an inspection of the large tiled hearth. Presently, removing his coat and his cuffs, he plunged his hand into the grimy chimney and removed a handful of soot, which he examined carefully and then threw away. He repeated the operation again and again, until at last, with evident satisfaction, he picked out a small object, which he deposited in an envelope. Then, after washing his hands in the clerks' room, he passed into the cashier's department. In a corner stood the telephone closet, the door of which was open. The receiver of the instrument was down. The reporter took it up and gazed at it long and earnestly.

Sturgis' examination of the bank must have lasted over two hours. At first Richard Dunlap looked on with a mild curiosity, in which amusement struggled with good-natured skepticism. But as time wore on the banker began to show signs of impatience, and when at last Sturgis returned to the private office and carefully deposited upon a sheet of white paper a miscellaneous assortment of tiny scraps and shreds, the banker could scarcely conceal his dissatisfaction.

"Well, Mr. Sturgis," he said, "I hope you have nearly completed your investigation; for my leisure is not so abundant that I can afford to waste it like this."

"I need one more witness at least," replied the reporter, "and I am afraid I shall have to ask you to help me obtain it."

"But," he quickly added, as he noted Dunlap's impatient gesture, "I think I can promise you that the time you are regretting has not been wasted."

The financier did not seem convinced by this assertion; but he nevertheless consented with an unwilling grace to assist the reporter to the best of his ability.

"Well, then," said Sturgis, "tell me, first of all, whether you keep firearms in the bank?"

"Yes," replied Dunlap; "the cashier has a small revolver which he keeps in his desk as a means of defense in case of a sudden attack by a bank thief."

"Have you the key to the desk?"

"Yes," replied the banker.

"Will you kindly see if the revolver you mention is in its place?"

"It ought to be," said Dunlap, picking out the key on a bunch which he took from his pocket, and walking towards the cashier's department with Sturgis at his heels.

"Yes, here it is in its accustomed place," said Sturgis, who was apparently well-satisfied.

He handed it to the reporter, who examined it attentively.

"Exactly," said Sturgis, with satisfaction; "this is what I was looking for."

"What do you mean?" asked Dunlap.

"I mean that this is the revolver which was fired twice last night in the Knickerbocker bank. See for yourself; two of the cartridges are empty, and the weapon has not been cleaned since these shots were fired."

"But who can have fired the pistol, and at whom was it fired, and why?"

"Hold on! hold on!" exclaimed Sturgis, smiling; "one thing at a time. We shall perhaps come to that soon. For the present, if you will come back to your private office, I shall endeavor to piece together the scraps of evidence which I have been able to collect. There, sit down in your own armchair, if you will, while I fit these bits of paper together; and in less than ten minutes I shall probably be ready to proceed with my story."

Dunlap was still nervous and impatient; but all trace of amusement and skepticism had vanished from his face, as he took the proffered armchair and watched Sturgis patiently piece together the tiny fragments of paper he had so carefully gathered. When this work was accomplished, the reporter went to the typewriter and wrote a few lines on a sheet of paper. He next proceeded to examine under the microscope the minute fragments and particles which he had collected in his search.

When he had finished this operation, he leaned back in his chair and looked up into space for what seemed to Dunlap an interminable length of time. Then at last he glanced at the banker, who could hardly contain his growing impatience.

"I am ready to go on now," said Sturgis, reaching for a sheet of paper, upon which he began to draw with ruler and pencil.

"At last!" sighed the banker.

"Yes; but my first, as the charades say, is a question."

"Another!" gasped Dunlap; "when is my turn to come?"

"Just a few more," replied Sturgis; "and then your turn will come for good."

"Well, out with your questions then, if you must," said Dunlap, seating himself resignedly in his chair.

CHAPTER X.

PIECING THE EVIDENCE.

Sturgis was still busy with his diagram. He spoke without looking up from his work.

"Who besides yourself has a key to the drawer in which this revolver is kept?"

"The cashier has one and the head bookkeeper has another."

"You mean the bookkeeper who sits at the desk at the extreme right in the bookkeepers' department?"

"Yes," replied Dunlap, "that is Mr. Arbogast's desk. Do you know him?"

"No. What did you say the gentleman's name is?" The reporter looked up and prepared to make a note of it.

"John W. Arbogast."

"A man something over 50 years of age, quite bald, with a fringe of gray hair; wears a heavy mustache and side whiskers; and had on yesterday afternoon, when you last saw him, a pepper-and-salt business suit," said Sturgis, writing down the name in his notebook.

Dunlap stared at the reporter in amazement. Sturgis smiled slightly.

"I met the gentleman yesterday afternoon," he explained.

"Oh, that accounts for it!" exclaimed the banker. "I see—but—but, then, how comes it that you did not know his name?"

"He did not tell me his name," said Sturgis, gravely, "and I did not know until just now that he was employed in the Knickerbocker bank. How long has he been with you?"

"Nearly 20 years; but only for the last five years as head bookkeeper."

"I suppose you have every confidence in his honesty?" asked the reporter, looking critically at the diagram before him.

"Of course. Such a position is not given to a man unless his record is excellent."

"And yet," observed the reporter, reflectively, "opportunity sometimes makes the thief."

"True; but the duty of a bank president is to reduce such opportunities to a minimum," said Dunlap, somewhat pompously.

"Quite so," assented Sturgis, "and this you accomplish by—"

"By having the books examined periodically," answered the banker, rubbing his hands together with calm satisfaction.

"I see," said the reporter, who had now finished his sketch. "Do the employees of the bank know when an examination of this kind is to be made?"

"They do not even know that such examinations are made. No one but the accountant and myself are in the secret; for the overhauling of the books is done entirely at night, after the bank is closed."

"Have the books been recently examined?" asked Sturgis, carelessly.

"Yes; only last week."

"Well?"

"They were found to be all right, as usual."

"May I ask by whom?"

"By Murray & Scott, the expert accountants."

"Was the examination conducted by Mr. Murray or by Mr. Scott?"

"By neither. For many years the work was done by one or the other of the members of the firm; but since their business has grown to its present proportions Messrs. Murray and Scott are no longer able to give personal attention to their customers. For the last two years they have sent us a trusted employee, Mr. Chatham—Thomas Chatham."

"Yes," said Sturgis, who was apparently well-satisfied.

A silence of several minutes followed, during which the reporter thoughtfully inspected his collection of microscopic odds and ends, while Dunlap beat the devil's tattoo upon the desk.

Presently the reporter spoke again: "Do you know a young man, about five feet eight inches tall, with fiery red hair, who affects somewhat loud clothes?"

"Why, that is Thomas Chatham. You know him, then?"

"I? No; I never heard of him before."

"Then, how on earth do you know—?"

"He has been here recently."

"Yes; I told you he had been here last week; but—"

"No; I mean he was here yesterday afternoon," interrupted the reporter.

"Not to my knowledge," said Dunlap, incredulously.

"I thought as much," Sturgis replied, quietly; "but he was here, for all that."

The banker looked perplexed.

"Now, another thing," continued Sturgis. "I notice in the bookkeepers' department an announcement to the effect that on January 2—that is to say, to-morrow—a new system of bookkeeping will be adopted. Would this be such as to bring to light any irregularities that might exist in the books?"

"Yes; it involves the transfer of each bookkeeper every month to a different set of books. But I fail to see the drift of your questions."

"You will see it presently. Have you examined the safes this morning?"

"Yes; one of the first things I did, after you allowed me to move at all, was to examine the cash safe."

"Ah, yes; the cash safe. And you found its contents intact?"

"Perfectly," said the banker, triumphantly.

"But there is also a safe in the bookkeepers' department."

"It contains nothing but the books, which of course would have no value to anyone but ourselves."

"You have not examined this safe?"

"Why, no; I—"

"If you have no objection, I should like to see the interior of that safe. I suppose, of course, you know the combination of that as well as that of the cash safe?"

"Oh, yes; the combinations are changed every Saturday, and of course I am always informed of the new combination."

"Then may I examine the bookkeepers' safe?"

"I see no objection to your doing so, if you like."

Dunlap seemed surprised at the reporter's request; but he rose and proceeded to the bookkeepers' department. Sturgis followed an instant later.

A DANGEROUS MOMENT.

The Nerve-Shaking Ordeal Which Once Confronted a Noted Bishop.

One need not be a soldier to stand in need of courage. A clergyman may find himself confronted with as nerve-shaking an ordeal as those more generally expected by the man of war. In his retrospect of "The Lights and Shadows of a Long Episcopate," Bishop Whipple tells of a moment when he found it extremely necessary that his courage should not fail him:

The bishop was about to preach in one of the cathedrals, when there entered a divinity student whose brain had become deranged by overmuch study. He went forward, as if to sit with the others.

"On reaching the chancel, however," says the bishop, "he stopped, and, taking a revolver from his pocket, pointed it at me. I felt what was coming before the revolver appeared, and knowing that the young man was short-sighted, and that he would probably wait until sure of his aim. I walked with quick, long strides through the chancel, which is very deep, grateful that I had been an athlete in younger days."

"At the chancel steps I made a leap, seized the young man by the collar, and turned him sharply round with my knee at his back, while I said to the congregation: 'Will some one take charge of this man? He is insane.'"

"It all happened so quickly that no one moved till then. The poor fellow was led out and the service went on. It was found that the pistol had a hair trigger, and that all the chambers were loaded, making it a marvel that no tragedy had occurred."

Unrewarded Obedience.

"Why were you discharged from your last position?"

"It was this way. The governor said it was time to take stock, and I took all I could. Then we went back on me and threatened to have me looked up for stealing; so I left."

Making It Easy.

"You have saved my estate," said the client, gratefully. "Now, what can I do to recompense you?"

"Well, I will make it easy for you," replied the lawyer. "You can pay me in installments. I am willing to take the estate as the first installment."

NIGHT OWLS OF A CITY.

Those Who Carry On Their Callings When Day Workers Are Asleep.

"Unless you are something of a noctambulist," said a man whose work keeps him up late at night, in the New Orleans Democrat, "you have no idea how many queer ways there are of making a living in this big city. Walking home anywhere from two to four o'clock in the morning, I have made the acquaintance of half a dozen curious crafts. The coal gleaners are most numerous. I think. They creep along with gunny sacks fishing in the gutters and picking up stray chunks in front of passageways. I have seen coal piles left out of doors that vanished like a dream in the time that it took me to traverse a block. What do they do with the stuff? They sell it, I suppose, to poor people who buy in basket lots. Another familiar figure is the bone and bottle man. I have no idea what he does with his plunder, but he flits like a specter from trash barrel to trash barrel and carefully searches the contents for bones and glass. He keeps the loot carefully separated in two sacks, and must have a storage den somewhere in the heart of the town, for he seems to collect an immense quantity. Still another industry is the gathering of paper and rags. The people that follow it—and they are mostly full grown men—must be immune to every microbe known to science, for nothing is too foul and filthy to escape their clutches. I have often shuddered to watch them, yet I dare say that the same malodorous refuse is eventually transferred into dainty notepaper, or delicate tissues, perhaps, for artificial flowers. One of the queerest of all the night owls is a fellow who appears to collect nothing but old wire. You would suppose there would be very little of that lying around, but I have seen him scurrying along with huge coils of it under his arm. No doubt he has other side lines which I have failed to detect. These are all, as you might say, tradesmen. A very industrious worker in another line is a little chap who runs errands, brings lunch, and 'rushes de can' for the night shifts in two or three big concerns near the river front. He is a strange and wearied creature of no age in particular, and has done nothing else for years. Nobody has ever seen him in daylight. It wouldn't surprise me if he faded into thin air at dawn."

Took the Wrong Sign.

Quite a humorous mistake, due to the haste of a motorman to get his car out on schedule time, occurred the other day on an uptown trolley car. The motorman had just time enough to get out of the depot. Once out he remembered that he had failed to put the sign, "Baseball To-day," on the front of his car.

As it was against orders to go out without the sign he ran back to the place where they are usually piled up, grabbed one, and put it on his car. All the way along the route he noticed that people looked at him in a peculiar manner and smiled repeatedly.

It was one of those mornings when it was very cool, and the day before had been real hot. The joke was finally explained when a man yelled to the motorman:—"Quite a contrast," and at the same time pointed to a van which had "Swimming at —" painted on its side and then to the front of the car. The motorman leaned over and found that his "baseball" sign bore the words, "Skating on Centennial Lake."—Philadelphia Call.

The Very Worst.

"James," she said, sleepily, "don't you hear queer noises? I believe there are burglars in the house!"

"No such good luck!" cried James, after a minute's pause. "That baby's awake again!"—Philadelphia North American.

TAKING THE CENSUS.

An Enumerator Meets with One Woman Who Didn't Withhold Any of the Details.

"Oh, yes, I know you are the census man. Warm day, take a seat. I've gotten all the facts for you. My husband, John Moore, is 40; I am 32; we have seven children; they are all well now."

"But—" put in the census man, relates the Pittsburgh Chronicle. "Yes, yes; you needn't ask me any questions. I'm telling you fast as I can. Tommy, our oldest boy, had the measles when he was three. He first began to walk when he was eight months old and the day after he was ten months old he could walk clear around the room without holding on to anything. He fell down the stairs when he was four years three months and thirteen days old, but it didn't hurt him any, and he liked ice cream from the first time he ever tasted it. I can't get him to eat gravy, but he had his first piece of steak when he was 15 months old. Johnnie, the next to the oldest—"

"Madam, stop, stop," cried the enumerator, "answer my questions. I don't want to know any more about your children."

And then the woman got angry and the census taker also lost his temper and left.

Millions for Baseball.

A million of dollars are spent every year upon the game of baseball, but as large as this sum is, it cannot begin to equal the amount spent by people in search of health. There is a sure method of obtaining strength, and it is not a costly one. We urge those who have spent much and lost hope to try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It strengthens the stomach, makes digestion easy and natural, and cures dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness and weak kidneys.

Pretense as to Contents.

"All right," replied the judge, "you want to swear out a warrant charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses." "No, suh. I want dat niggab sent up fo' tainin' money undeil false contenses. Dat's what, judge."—Baltimore American.

Better Than a Doctor.

Palmer's Lotion, if properly used, is often better than the prescriptions of a regular physician. Under date of July 2, 1900, Mr. Lester A. Fawcett, 30 Carleton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "After being treated several days without benefit for sore eyes and eyelids by a regular M. D., I was relieved in two minutes by Palmer's Lotion, and now, at the end of four days, am a well man." Palmer's Lotion has also cured a number of cases of granulated eyelids which physicians had treated without success. Palmer's Lotion Soap should be kept in every household as it possesses the medicinal properties of the Lotion and is the only soap to be used in connection with it. If your druggist does not keep it, send his name to Solon Palmer, 374 Pearl St., New York, and receive free pamphlet of testimonials with sample of Lotion or Soap.

STORY OF MANDY HIGGINS' BABY.

"Have you heard how Mandy Higgins' baby is?" "Oh, she is better, and just as clean and sweet as any baby ever was." "Well, I'm mighty glad to hear it. It's about time the poor little critter had some rest. I tell you what it is, if Mandy had washed its head with CUTICURA SOAP first-off, and put on some CUTICURA Ointment when her baby's head began to get crusty, she'd have saved herself heaps of trouble, and the poor little kid would have been a different being. Think of the days and nights Mandy's walked the floor with that baby. I ain't got no kind of patience with people that has to be told about a thing a hundred times before they begin to believe in the virtue of it."

"Now, I told Mandy more'n three weeks ago about CUTICURA SOAP, and she knew just as well as you do, Liz, that we'd used it here going on five years or more, and that none of our family ever had a pimple, or any kind of irritation of the skin since we first begun using it. She was that contrary that I could'n't get her to try it on her baby, even though I offered to give her a cake of the soap and some of the ointment from our box."

"But now she comes here about every day to thank me. Fact is, the youngster's head is as clean as a whistle, and her skin is just as pretty as you ever see on any baby."

MOTHERS: Mothers, to know that a warm bath with CUTICURA SOAP, and a single anointing with CUTICURA, the great skin cure and purest of emollients, will afford instant relief, permit rest and sleep to both parent and child, and point to a speedy cure, in the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, crusty and scaly humors, rashes, and irritations, with loss of hair, and not to use them is to fail in your duty. Think of the years of suffering entailed by such neglect. Cures made in childhood are speedy, permanent, and economical.

Sold throughout the world. Price, CUTICURA SOAP, 25c.; OINTMENT, 50c.; POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CO., Sole Props., Boston, U. S. A. Send for "The Care of Baby's Skin, Scalp, Hair, and Nails," free.

Blood Troubles: Cancer, Scrofula, Old Sores, Rheumatism, Contagious Blood Poison, Chronic Ulcers.

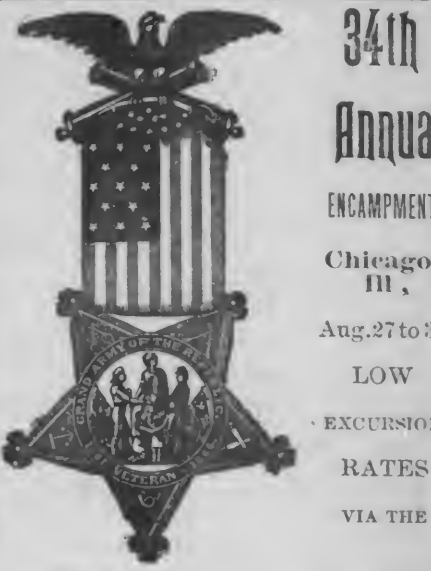

As the blood contains all the elements necessary to sustain life, it is important that it be kept free of all impurities, or it becomes a source of disease, poisoning instead of nourishing the body, and loss of health is sure to follow. Some poisons enter the blood from without, through the skin by absorption, or inoculation; others from within, as when waste products accumulate in the circulation. While all blood troubles have one common origin, each has some peculiarity to distinguish it from the other. Contagious Blood Poison, Scrofula, Cancer, Rheumatism, Eczema and other blood diseases can be distinguished by a certain sore, ulcer, eruption or inflammation appearing on the skin. Every blood disease shows sooner or later on the outside and on the weakest part of the body, or where it finds the least resistance. Many mistake the sore or outward sign for the real disease, and attempt a cure by the use of salves, liniments and other external applications. Valuable time is lost and no permanent benefit derived from such treatment.

BLOOD TROUBLES REQUIRE BLOOD REMEDIES; the poison must be completely and permanently eradicated—the blood reinforced, purified and cleansed, or the disease goes deeper and saps the very life. Mercury, potash and arsenic, the treatment usually prescribed in this class of diseases, are violent poisons, even when taken in small doses—never cure, but do much harm by adding another poison to the already overburdened, diseased blood.

S. S. S., Nature's own remedy, made of roots and herbs, attacks the disease in the blood, antitoxins and forces out all impurities, makes weak, thin blood rich, strong and healthy, and at the same time builds up the general health. S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known, and the only one that can reach deep-seated blood troubles. A record of 50 years of successful cures proves it to be a reliable, unfailing specific for all blood and skin troubles.

Free Medical Treatment.—Our Medical Department is in charge of skilled physicians, who have made blood and skin diseases a life study, so if you have Contagious Blood Poison, Cancer, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Eczema, an Old Sore or Ulcer, or any similar blood trouble, write them fully for advice about your case. All correspondence is conducted in strictest confidence. We make no charge for this service. Book on blood and skin diseases free. SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Question Answered
Yes Angust Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers, and grandmothers, never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They used Angust Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's Angust Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries. oct-27-1y

To Asthma Sufferers.
Lawson Elvidge of Barrington, Ill., says he was cured of chronic asthma, of long standing by Pholey's Honey and Tar. It gives positive relief in all cases asthma, so this disease, when not completely cured, is robbed of all its terrors by this great remedy. Clarke & Kenney.

Starvation never yet cured dyspepsia. Persons with indigestion are already half starved. They need plenty of wholesome food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat so that the body can be nourished while the worn out organs are being reconstructed. It is the only preparation known that will instantly relieve and completely cure all stomach troubles. Try it if you are suffering from indigestion. It will certainly do you good. W. T. Brooks.

Woman's Rights.
Many women suffer all sorts of so called "female weaknesses" just because their kidneys are out of order and they have a right to know Foley's Kidney Cure is just what is needed by most ailing women. Clarke & Kenney.

Neglect is the short step so many take from a cough or cold to consumption. The early use of One Minute Cough Cure prevents consumption. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. It cures all throat and lung troubles. Children all like it and mothers endorse it. W. T. Brooks.

If you are sick all over, and don't know just what ails you, it's ten to one your kidneys are out of order. Foley's Kidney Cure will bring you health and energy. Clarke & Kenney.
